

BondBloxx Launches First Suite of Target Duration U.S. Treasury ETFs to Help Investors Get More Precise Exposure to U.S. Treasuries

- Eight new U.S. Treasury ETFs seek to provide targeted exposure to specific duration

LARKSPUR, Calif., September 15, 2022 – BondBloxx Investment Management announces the launch of a suite of eight duration-specific U.S. Treasury ETFs, which begin trading today on NYSE Arca. These first-to-market ETFs offer investors a more precise, lower cost way to get exposure to U.S. Treasuries. The funds track a series of indices developed by Bloomberg Index Services that include duration-constrained subsets of all investment-grade U.S. Treasury bonds with over $300 billion outstanding.

“In today’s rapidly changing interest rate environment, key priorities for fixed income portfolio managers and investors are earning higher yields on strategic cash positions, precisely managing duration risk,<sup>1</sup> and having effective collateral tools,” said BondBloxx Client Portfolio Manager JoAnne Bianco. “BondBloxx Target Duration U.S. Treasury ETFs can help investors in all these areas, with the benefits of being lower cost, transparent, liquid and tax efficient.”

The new ETFs add to the existing eleven BondBloxx products that have been launched since February 2022, including seven industry sector-specific high yield bond ETFs, three ratings-specific high yield bond ETFs, and one short-duration emerging market bond ETF. BondBloxx has gathered more assets in new fixed income ETFs launched in 2022 than any other ETF issuer.<sup>2</sup>

“At BondBloxx, we’re committed to building innovative fixed income tools for the markets of today and tomorrow,” added BondBloxx co-founder Tony Kelly. “These new ETFs, which finally make it possible for investors to truly manage their duration exposure with precision, are an exciting and valuable addition to that investor toolkit.”

BondBloxx was founded in October 2021 with a singular focus on developing precision fixed income ETFs designed for modern fixed income markets. In a landscape where less than one quarter of the ETF products available in the U.S. provide fixed income exposure, the company aims to provide better tools for investors to manage their fixed income portfolios.

The new products listing today, with their tickers and expense ratios, are:

<sup>1</sup> Duration is the risk associated with the sensitivity of a bond’s price to a one percent change in interest rates. The higher the duration, the more sensitive a bond investment will be to changes in interest rates. As interest rates rise or fall over time, the duration of U.S. Treasury securities in broad maturity range indices, as well as the funds and ETFs that track those indices, drift lower or higher – this is known as “duration drift” and sometimes can be quite dramatic.

The Fund is a newly organized entity and has no operating history. Investments in fixed income securities subject the holder to the credit risk of the issuer. Credit risk refers to the possibility that the issuer or other counter parties of a security will not be able or willing to make payments of interest and principal when due. Generally, the value of debt securities will change inversely with changes in interest rates. To the extent that interest rates rise, certain underlying obligations may be paid off substantially slower than originally anticipated and the value of those securities may fall sharply. Securities that are rated below investment-grade (sometimes referred to as "junk bonds") be deemed speculative, may involve greater levels of risk than higher-rated securities of similar maturity and may be more likely to default.

Investing in emerging markets involves risks relating to political, economic, or regulatory conditions not associated with investments in U.S. securities and instruments or investments in more developed international markets; Loss due to foreign currency fluctuations, or geographic events that adversely impact issuers of foreign securities.

The Fund is classified as a "non-diversified" fund under the 1940 Act. The Fund may be susceptible to an increased risk of loss to the extent that the Fund's investments are concentrated in the securities and/or other assets of a particular issuer or issuers, sector, sub-sector, market segment, market, industry, group of industries, country, group of countries, region or asset class.
